HERE AND THERE.

Shakespeare is the name of a Philadelphia lawyer whose specialty is theatrical litigation.

The Rev. Andrew J. Rope, of Taylorville, Ill., is under arrest on a charge of forging a note for $200, with which money he paid the expenses of his wedding tour.

A prosperous Michigan baby-carriage factory had its origin in the birth of fifteen babies in thirteen days. A carpenter got the job of making carriages for the whole number, and from that start the business grew.

According to a return which has just been published, there are no fewer than twenty-eight landholders who own upward of 20,000 acres in the province of Silesia. There are eight who own upward of 100,000 acres.

A fisherman caught recently in his net at Queen's Ferry, a few miles below Chester, England, the largest salmon ever caught in the Dee. It was found to turn the scale at forty pounds, was four feet in length, and a healthy, clean, and well-developed fish.

Thirty-three Chicago bootblacks went to St. Paul, counting on nickels from the crowds during a fair. The Chief of Police ordered them to quit the city. But they were not to be bulldozed. They hired a lawyer to fight for their right to work wherever they pleased.

An embassy from the Queen of Madagascar has arrived in England. This movement on the part of the Madagascan authorities is attributed to the action of the French on the west coast of the island, where the latter have hauled down the Queen's flag at two stations.

Whatever else may be lacking at Rugby, the colonists are well supplied with reading matter. The Hughes Library received 5,025 books from American publishers when Mr. Hughes was here, and several Chicagoans, remembering his aid in re-establishing the Chicago Library after the great fire, have agreed to give such books as may still be needed.

The other day the Pope received from London a gift of 100,000 francs, the sender of which implored the Apostolic benediction. Several offerings of large sums have lately been made in this way from England and from America, and they have gone far to supplement the reduction in the amount of Peter's pence, which in other parts of the world has fallen off.

Lawn tennis not being found sufficiently exciting for the French ladies, they are learning fencing. At Deauville there is a fencing room, where numerous ladies, wearing the prettiest and most coquetish costumes, already display a certain proficiency with the foils. An assault of amateurs is to take place at Dieppe during the great week. The "bouquet" will be a fencing match between two ladies.

Charles Slack took John F. Waite's wife to his home, at Van Buren, Mich., and Waite went after her, accompanied by a large party of friends, among whom was a constable bearing a warrant for Slack's arrest on a charge of abduction. On the arrival of the mob, Slack took Waite aside and asked him his price for the woman. Waite thought $50 not too much, though he paid it, and Waite spent a part in treating the crowd to whisky.

The well-known French breeder of race-horses, Count de Lagrange, is about to sell his stud. He has now been an owner of horses for about a quarter of a century; and during that period he has won in France and England, to say nothing of his occasional excursions into Germany when the Baden-Baden races were patronized by French sportsmen, more than $2,500,000. The sale of next month will extend over three days, and 163 head of stock will be brought beneath the allied hammers of the English and the French Tattersall. The stock consists of mares, foals, yearlings, and sires, and will be followed at the end of the season by a sale of horses in training. All this thoroughbred stock is the property of the association formed seven years ago under the auspices of Count de Lagrange; and buyers are expected to find their way from every part of the habitable globe to the little village on the banks of the Eppe. Dangu, at which the sale is to be held, is a village in the department of the Eure, about five miles from Gisors, a town on the line from Paris to Dieppe; and Count de Lagrange owns nearly all the land in this and in the adjoining commune of Neaufles—twelve hundred acres of pasturage and fifteen hundred of arable land. It is here that Count de Lagrange has been breeding and training race horses for so many years; and the perfect order which characterizes the whole establishment goes far to account for his success.

NOTICE.

The undersigned wish it distinctly understood that they have not, as reported, sold their smelting and sampling works, or any part of their property. They have a surplus of assaying materials and charcoal for sale, in quantities to suit.

For further particulars, apply at the smelter, or at W. B. Noble's, Hailey, Idaho.
